

GUIDELINES FOR PUBLICATION

Collaboration is one of the pillars of Wimblu, the space is open for other photography and film author's participation who share our same sense of curiosity and exploration.

Here are some aspects to consider before presenting a Project for publication on Wimblu:

- We do not publish promotional or institutional videos, neither are we interested in personal travel photography and videos.
- Each essay or film must have a clear social, environmental or cultural thematic line; and must be accompanied by a text that provides a synopsis and intention of the Project in a maximum of 700 words.
- Although we publish short-term projects, we nonetheless expect the author to have enough knowledge about the issue he or she is exploring, as well as a genuine interest in it. Or else that he or she is collaborating with an specialist in the topic.
- All our publications have a companion text about the topic. The author or a collaborator must be able to provide said text (700-1200 words).
- This is a magazine by and for photography and film professionals. We are looking for projects by authors who are committed to their medium.

Technical aspects:

Photo stories:

- Amount of photos: 10-25 (sent via dropbox or wetransfer).
- Name the files in the following way:
Author'sLast Name_TitleOfTheProject_001
(If the title of the project is too long, you can use just part of it)
- Dimensions: 12 inches on the longest side.
- Resolution:
 - Web: minimum 100dpi
 - Print: minimum 300dpi
- Maximum size for each file: 10MB
- Image captions: the photos should bring their captions as metadata, both in English and Spanish. If you are not using caption, indicate so in the email.
- The author is responsible for all image and distribution rights corresponding to the photos he or she has sent.

Films:

- Files must be sent via dropbox or wetransfer.
- Name the file in the following way:
Author'sLastName_TitleOfTheProject
(If the title of the project is too long, you can use just part of it)

- Minimum resolution 1080p.
- Maximum file size: 3GB
- The author is responsible for all image and distribution rights corresponding to the film he or she has sent.

In both cases, images should be without any watermark, logos, etc. All corresponding credits and logos should be sent in a separate file and they will be included in the publication along with a link to the author's website (include this in the credits document).
